City's Zena Reservoir To Open for Public Fishing

KINGSTON — The City of Kingston will celebrate the nation's newest holiday— National Hunting and Fishing Day—by, for the first time, opening up its reservoir at Zena for public fishing.

"It is entirely fitting and appropriate that on the eve of National Hunting and Fishing Week, which is expected to be proclaimed by the President for Saturday, Sept. 27, that we should announce at this time that an agreement has been entered into between the Board of Water Commissioners of the city acting on authority delegated to it by the Common Council and approved by the mayor," said Mayor Francis R. Koenig in announcing the opening of Reservoir No. 1 to public fishing.

The gist of Koenig's information on the new holiday is correct. President Ford will sign legislation marking the fourth Saturday in September as National Hunting and Fishing Day; he will not designate the entire week as such.

That legislation was co-sponsored by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.).

Koenig's announcement concerns fishing rights at one of the city's main sources of water. Originally the Board of Water Commissioners opposed the proposal but according to Koenig has changed its position after getting assurances from the city on strict regulation of the fishing.

The restrictions, according to Koenig, are as follows:

- "Such grounds are for fishing purposes only with no boating or fishing in the stream per-

- "Restricted to an area apart from the city water main installations;
 - "There is a specified restricted area for parking for fishermen;
 - "There is a requirement for special permit for fishing in such waters limited only to those holding valid and substantial state fishing licenses;
 - "There are exempt from those provisions persons under 16 who are accompanied by duly licensed persons;
 - "Also there may not be any use of such premises for playground, recreation, picnicking, camping, hunting or swimming, except as specifically heretofore authorized by the Board of Water Commissioners."
- Koenig said the rules would be enforced by the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County which signed a contract today with the city for such purposes. The Sportsmen's Federation had requested the fishing rights last April.
- The fishing will not be restricted to residents of Kingston, Koenig said, being open to any person with a valid fishing license. Special permits for fishing in Reservoir No. One are available at the city clerk's office at city hall.
- "This office hails this worthy cause for opening a new recreational facility to the public close at hand and trusts that the people of the city of Kingston and our good neighbors will avail themselves of this privilege for their personal enjoyment and hopefully improvement of the public health through this outdoor activity," Koenig concluded.

Another Criticism Over Pool

KINGSTON — Terming Mayor Francis R. Koenig's response to his criticism over borrowing money for the new swimming pool at Dietz Stadium a "last ditch stand," Republican Mayoral Candidate William K. Darling said today "the delays and mishandling of the pool are reminiscent of the Keystone Cops."

Darling insists, the mayor's denials notwithstanding, that the city will still have to pay some interest on a $208,000 revenue anticipation note authorized by the Common Council on Sept. 2. A maximum interest rate payment of 7.5 percent was also authorized.

Koenig says "at no time will it be necessary to borrow $208,000 and any necessary borrowings will be kept at a minimum." He also criticizes Darling for not knowing the difference, in Koenig's opinion, between "bonded indebtedness and a revenue anticipation note."

Koenig notes the city has the $208,000 committed, half from the state and half from the Andretta Foundation.

Saugerties Teachers on the March

Members of the Saugerties Teachers Association march in "informational picket" action Monday after classes at Riccardi School, Glasco. The teachers also carried signs at the junior-senior high school prior to classes Monday morning in connection with a contract dispute that has existed since last January between the teachers and the board of education. Diplomatic Hostages Freed

Four Guerrillas Surrender

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Four masked Palestinian guerrillas who seized the Egyptian embassy in Madrid flew to Algiers and surrendered to authorities today, releasing the Egyptian ambassador and four other diplomatic hostages.

Algerian officials gave the group a polite reception but did not immediately say whether they would grant them asylum.

An official representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization, which has denied responsibility for Monday's embassy seizure, also was at the airport to greet the commandos.

Weary but exchanging jokes among themselves, the Palestinians, all university students in their 20s, told reporters they hoped their one-day capture of the Egyptian embassy had alerted the world to what they called "Egypt's betrayal of the Palestinian and Arab cause."

The guerrillas had demanded that Egypt renounce the latest interim Sinai peace accord negotiated with Israel and send home their peace delegation now in Geneva.

In Geneva, the Egyptian and Israeli military delegations resumed negotiations today in an effort to agree on ways to implement the Sinai accord.

It was the eleventh meeting in the current series aimed at reaching agreement on all outstanding details of the pact.

Wearing black nylon stocking hoods over their heads, the Palestinians and their hostages flew in the silver and red Ilyushin Soviet twin engine executive jet of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

The chief captive from Madrid, Egyptian ambassador Mahmoud Abdel Ghaffar, was the first to step down with two aides from the plane, followed by the Algerian and Iraqi envoys to Madrid who negotiated the deal under which the lives of the Egyptians were spared and the guerrillas flown to Algiers.

Ghaffar said he will fly on to Cairo today to report to President Anwar Sadat, who rejected the Palestinian demand to break off talks with Israel.

Witnesses said the guerrillas raised their hands in a clenched fist salute as they got off the plane in pre-dawn darkness at the seaside airfield.

"We have achieved our objective — alerting Arab and international opinion to the dangers of Egypt's accord with Israel," the guerrilla spokesman, who identified himself as Abou Aissa, told newsmen.

The four well-dressed gunmen stormed the Egyptian embassy in Madrid Monday morning, seizing Ambassador Mahmoud Abdel Ghaffar, Consul Mohamed Shaffei and press attache Mohamed Affifi.

They threatened to execute their three hostages unless Egypt withdrew from peace talks with Israel in Geneva.

After 16 hours of negotiations with Arab diplomats, they agreed to fly to Algiers and free their captives.

Iraqi Ambassador Hassan Nagib and Algerian Ambassador Mohammed Khaled Khelladi agreed to go along as volunteer hostages on the flight.

The five diplomats alighted first from the plane and boarded waiting limousines for the trip to Algiers.

Just before he slipped into his car, Ghaffar said he was "happy with the outcome of the operation."

The guerrillas met with reporters in the airport's VIP lounge.

"We knew in advance Egypt would reject our demand for a public condemnation of its accord with Israel," Aissa said.

"We are satisfied with the outcome of our operation whose success was assured thanks to the coldbloodedness of the freedom fighters and to the understanding of the Arab mediators."

"We have chosen Algiers as the terminal of our operation before we had launched it. Our choice was motivated by the revolutionary and dignified attitude of the Algerian government towards the Palestinian and Arab cause."

Algerian officials who greeted the hostages at the airfield refused to indicate what would happen to the guerrillas.

In recent years, Algeria has firmly condemned political hijackings, but Algerian authorities also have been cool to the Egyptian-Israeli disengagement accord.

Before leaving Madrid, the guerrillas said Ghaffar and the ambassadors of four other Arab countries signed a statement denouncing the pact.

The four guerrillas had barricaded themselves and their three hostages inside Ghaffar's study in the Madrid embassy, placing explosives around the room and threatening to blow up the building if anyone tried to enter.

County Lawmakers in Welfare Showdown

KINGSTON — Money for medical assistance payments in Ulster County will run out Wednesday, but 11th hour action is expected tonight when the legislature meets to vote on an additional $3.5 million appropriation to meet the cost of welfare for the balance of 1975.

Once before—on Sept. 11—the legislature was asked to appropriate the additional monies. Action was deferred to give county representatives an opportunity to hear and discuss alternative welfare proposals at a meeting in Schenectady Monday.

Officials from 17 New York counties attended Monday's session; although the representatives did not come up with a solution to the growing welfare crisis, they did reach a consensus on proposals for legislative change that will be submitted to state and federal lawmakers.

The five county representatives who attended Monday's meeting will submit a report at tonight's legislative session. County lawmakers will then decide whether to approve additional funding for the welfare budget and hope for significant changes next year, or continue to refuse to pay the money and hope for immediate state or federal intervention.

Social Services Commissioner Bernhardt S. Kramer, however, has warned that failure to appropriate the extra $3.5 million before Wednesday could place in jeopardy some $2.6 million in state and federal aid.

Maureen Graham, deputy commissioner of social services, who attended Monday's meeting in Schenectady, said today that the county legislature is mandated by law to support its welfare cases; if the money is not approved, the county residents who receive Medicaid and aid to dependent children (ADC) payments will not receive the support funds they require.

Of the $3.5 million the county has been asked to appropriate, $2.6 million will eventually be reimbursed by the state and federal governments. But Kramer has noted that, should the county refuse to appropriate the money, it could be taken to court and forced to pay the entire amount without any state or federal aid.

That is the dilemma that faces Orange County today. Because the lawmakers there have refused to appropriate additional welfare monies, the county's Medicaid fund will be depleted today. The New York State Department of Social Services is reportedly in the process of preparing legal action against the county.

And the rapidly escalating welfare revolt has also spread to Dutchess County, where the Board of Representatives Monday night refused to allocate an additional $1.2 million in welfare funds.

Monday's meeting in Schenectady resulted in several proposals that, if approved, could relieve the welfare burden now being shouldered by the individual counties. Among the points proposed were:

- The state should pay any welfare deficits experienced by individual counties this year.
- A study to determine how the state can drop out of federally mandated welfare programs,

• An immediate moratorium on new state and federal welfare programs, except for those that would reduce costs,

• Imposition of harsher penalties on welfare recipients who refuse to work.

In addition to Mrs. Graham, those from Ulster County who attended Monday's meeting were legislator Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist.5), chairman of the social services committee, and legislators Lewis Hall (R-Dist.2), C. Freeman Lasher (R-Dist.1) and Stephen G. Hyatt (R-Dist.2).

Tentative Pact for NYC Teachers

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Federation of Teachers' Executive Board today approved a tentative agreement with the Board of Education that could end a week-long strike against the New York City school system.

UFT President Albert Shanker, in announcing the action, said the teacher union's Delegate Assembly would meet for a ratification session expected to last at least two hours. He said voting by the rank-and-file would begin one hour after that session ends.

Shanker said the Board of Education had approved the proposed agreement, but said he had "misgivings" about the tentative pact.

"I'm not moving the contract so anyone can claim a great victory," he said. "I'm recommending it because it's the best that can be gotten under the situation — not good — but the best."

He declined to reveal details of the tentative pact and would not predict whether the approximately 55,000 teachers would ratify it, saying, "It's going to be rough."

Approval by the 75-member union Executive Board followed a more than two hour meeting at which Shanker said, "A strike is a weapon you use against a boss that has money. This boss has no money. The longer this goes the worse."

The UFT Executive Board took a voice vote which appeared to be about 2-to-1 in favor of the proposed pact.

Local school board officials had expressed opposition to the pact. However a spokesman for the Board of Education said, "Their views have been heard but it's still up to the board to make a final decision."

The walkout by some 55,000 teachers began last Tuesday in a dispute over working conditions.

The UFT had scheduled a meeting for midnight Monday for its 1,300-member delegate assembly, which includes representatives from the city's 950 schools, in hopes an agreement could be reached quickly Monday night.

The schedule of meetings was called off when the complications arose. The UFT urged its membership to listen to radio and television stations for word on the status of negotiations and the time of a possible rank-and-file meeting.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, Teachers Union President Robert Healey said teachers were preparing for "a long road."

Schools were closed for the 10th class day to Chicago's 530,000 public school students.

Healey said the union was lending money to striking members and that it hoped to open alternative schools for some students Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Lay Faculty Association has authorized a strike for today that would involve some 12 Catholic high schools within the Archdiocese of New York, including John A. Coleman High in Kingston and Our Lady of Lourdes High in Poughkeepsie.

Sr. Catherine Gormley S. U., principal at Coleman, told the Freeman today "Coleman High is operating under normal conditions."

"Although the Association has authorized a strike, all of our lay teachers, with the exception of one delegate to the association, are working today. They could have gone out on strike, but, due to their commitments to education, they have so far decided to stay on the job," she stated.

Sr. Gormley said that if the lay teachers changed their minds and went out on strike, she would continue to keep the school open.

In Poughkeepsie, a school official at Lourdes said earlier today that the school was open, operating under normal conditions and that the lay teachers hadn't, to his knowledge, planned any job action or strike.

SHANKER HEADS FOR MEETING

(UPI)

Suit Is Filed To Repair Span

OLIVE

A show cause order has been signed by Supreme Court Justice Harold J. Hughes requiring the City of New York to show why it should not be compelled to repair the Traver Hollow Bridge in Boiceville, which is considered too risky for use and has been closed since June 5.

The bridge is owned and maintained by the New York City Board of Water Supply and connects West Shokan and Boiceville. Since it has been closed, ambulances stationed in West Shokan must travel 13 miles to pick up patients in Boiceville and then travel 20 miles to Kingston to hospitals.

The suit against the City of New York and its Department of Water Supply has been brought by seven Olive residents on behalf of themselves and others. Represented by attorney H. Clark Bell they include: Alfred A. Higley, Olive town justice; Marcel Maier, superintendent of highways; Edward Scanlon, a local businessman; Conrad Giuliano; E. Lee Denman, town clerk; Majority Leader of the Ulster County Legislature Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist.5) and Oliver A. Crawford, supervisor.

The show cause order is returnable Oct. 5.

Bell said that according to the 1905 Watershed Act, the City of New York and its Water Supply Department are required "to forever repair and maintain their bridges". He maintains that they have defaulted in their responsibility and obligations.

New York City began repairs last spring with one-way traffic maintained until the June 5 closing. Town residents have complained about increased problems caused by the closing and the Olive Town Board criticized the city for closing the span without notifying town officials, fire departments or volunteer ambulance services.

PCB Levels Down in Hudson River Crabs

ALBANY A Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) sampling of blue claw crabs taken from the Hudson River has disclosed concentrations of PCB's below acceptable levels established by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Analyses of a composite of 10 crabs revealed a PCB concentration of 3.96 parts per million. The acceptable level is five parts per million.

By comparison, previous DEC samples have uncovered a walleye with 157.27 ppm, rock bass with 27.3 ppm, a smallmouth bass with 127 ppm and a white sucker with 51.39 ppm.

PCB (polychlorinated biphenyl) is a toxic chemical used in the manufacture of plastics and other materials. It is believed to be a cancer causing agent and can affect the reproductive capacity of humans and the spawning capabilities of fish.

Much of the blame for the presence of the unusually high PCB levels has been directed at General Electric Corp. Two GE plants north of Albany have regularly been discharging PCB's into the river since the early 1950's.

A department spokesman, however, could not say Monday where in the Hudson River the latest samples of blue claw crabs were taken.

The fact the same species of Hudson River fish may be infected with dangerously high concentrations of the chemical was first revealed early last month, when tests conducted by the DEC uncovered PCB concentrations of between 78 and 350 ppm in bass and minnows taken from the river north of Albany. Striped bass caught near the Tappan Zee Bridge also contained levels of PCB's considered unsafe for human ingestion.

The DEC has noted that it will continue to monitor fish species taken from the Hudson, as well as its tributaries, to determine the extent of contamination by PCB's, as well as by mercury and insecticides. Many of the tests conducted so far have revealed PCB concentrations above the danger level.

It is estimated that more than 300,000 pounds of PCB's have been deposited in the river since the chemical first achieved widespread use. The two General Electric plants alone were discharging as much as 50 pounds of the chemical per day several years ago; that amount has since been reduced to less than five pounds per day.

The DEC, meanwhile, has filed suit against General Electric seeking to reduce that discharge to two pounds per day by the end of this year, and a complete end of the dumping by 1976. A hearing will be held Oct. 6 in Albany.

Teachers Picket in Saugerties

SAUGERTIES "Informational pickets" they were called by the Saugerties Teachers' Association, the first overt notice Monday morning at the juniorsenior high school of the contract dispute that has existed since last January between the teachers and board of education.

STA President William Sisler said that about half of the 240 teachers of the junior-senior high school participated in the sign carrying and marching that preceded classes at 7 a.m.

And the second march of the day occurred when classes let out at the Riccardi School in Glasco. No further pickets were planned right away, said Sisler. He added that teachers reported for work on time and there was "no disruption of traffic."

A release from the teachers stated that the picketing was an "accelerated effort in job action to increase pressure to reach settlement on a new contract."

Actually, some collective bargaining breakthroughs were recorded. An impasse was declared by the board team July 7 and the first mediation took place July 24. But from then to Aug. 25 teams reached agreement on more than 15 articles without mediation of fact finding. Teams negotiating 14 hours Sept. 5 reduced the number of articles remaining to three.

These three items, salary, fringe benefits, and fair dismissal job security, were submitted to fact finder Robert Humrich, who arrived at the end of that meeting.

Sisler said the STA wants to "continue negotiations and settle the remaining issues between themselves and the board without outside help."

The PERB fact finder's report is due any day, and the board is mandated under the Taylor Law to hold a public hearing on its contents five days after receipt. The report is not legally binding under the law. In fact, the last resort the board has is to arbitrarily impose a settlement on the STA. This eventuality has not, to say the least, been well received by teachers' association in the short history of the Taylor Law.

Arrests Made in City Meters Case

By Matt Spireng

KINGSTON Thefts of money from Kingston parking meters reportedly amounting to hundreds of dollars during the past several weeks may have been halted Monday night, when police took a 16-year-old youth and four juveniles ranging in age from eight to 14 into custody for their alleged involvement in the thefts.

According to Det. Lt. Charles McCullough, the thefts began some three weeks ago and continued intermittently through Monday, when 21 parking meters in the city were found to have been opened and emptied.

McCullough credited Patrolman Michael Jubie for his alertness Monday night in spotting the 16-year-old allegedly tampering with a parking meter on Broadway.

The youth, identified as Michael Williams of 168 Downs Street, was arrested and charged with attempting to commit the crime of petit larceny.

Subsequent to the arrest of Williams, four juveniles were identified as having allegedly been involved in the thefts, and they were turned over to the Juvenile Aid Bureau.

McCullough estimated that hundreds of dollars may have been taken from parking meters during the past several weeks. Stakeouts had been maintained at times during the course of the investigation, McCullough said, but they turned up nothing. Jubie was reportedly transporting prisoners at the time he spotted Williams, and other officers were called to the scene to make the arrest.

Meanwhile, in other area police matters:

In Glenrie, George Lucente, 39, of Partition Street, Saugerties, was seriously injured Monday night at about 10:30 p.m. when he was struck by a car while walking on Route 9W.

Saugerties Town Police said Lucente was thrown some 25 feet after being struck by a car operated by Elinor Diemer, 74, of 28 Maiden Lane.

Kingston, who told police she did not see Lucente, who was wearing dark clothing. No tickets were issued.

Lucente, who is a part-time Town of Saugerties patrolman and was not on duty at the time, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance. He was listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit today.

In Poughkeepsie, a priest died early today in a fire in St. Joseph's Church rectory. Firemen said the priest, whose name was being withheld until relatives could be notified, was found dead in his bed and had apparently suffocated after fire, believed caused by a cigarette, broke out in a chair in another room where the priest had been smoking and watching television prior to retiring.

In Kingston, a fire which was set in a third floor boys' room at Kingston High School Monday afternoon is under investigation. Fire officials said the blaze, which had been extinguished before their arrival at about 2:30 p.m., originated in rags which were stuffed into a hole in the wall in the boys' room.

In the Town of Saugerties state police arrested John Ryan, 22, of Jackson Heights, a City College of New York student, on charges of third degree possession of a weapon and seventh degree possession of a controlled substance. Police said Ryan was allegedly in possession of a loaded .32 caliber revolver and a quantity of marijuana when he was spotted parked in a shopping center parking lot at about 3 a.m. today. He was jailed in lieu of $1,500 bail.

Another Deer Story, but . . .

RIFTON All ended well Monday for a young deer which entered a school yard at the Anna Devine School in Rifton on Sunday and became confused, repeatedly running into a fence and injuring itself.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department was told of the injured deer by a Rifton resident, and the Ulster County SPCA was called in.

On arriving at the scene, assistant SPCA manager Bill Robinson briefly examined the young buck, estimated to be about five months old, and determined that no bones were broken. The animal, which had multiple head injuries and abrasions, was then taken to veterinarian Dr. Gilbert Hoppenstedt.

The deer was found to be suffering from mild shock, but it was determined that it would be ready for release Monday morning.

The State Department of Environmental Conservation was notified of the proposed release, according to SPCA officials, and permission was granted.

Noting that care had to be taken so the deer would not sustain further injury while being transported to the release site since it was no longer in shock, Robinson contacted an area deer authority, Andrew Simmons, who suggested that the best method was to physically restrain the deer by hand on its way to release.

The 60-pound animal, not tranquilized, was transported to the Town of Saugerties in such a manner and was released there in a more remote area, Robinson said.

According to Robinson, the deer when released walked calmly away, actually following an established deer run, and disappeared into the woods.

"He was pretty calm throughout," Robinson said of the animal.

Finance Pledge

TOWN OF ULSTER "Our campaign may not be well financed but what is accomplished will be done through good old-fashioned hard work."

Thus spoke Kenneth R. Dargis, Town of Ulster Democratic Chairman and candidate for town council in regard to the question "...some people are wondering how the Democrats plan on raising money for their campaign."

Taking the vow of poverty, Dargis said "Based on this policy the Democrats intend to raise money through small contributions and programs such as bake sales and garage sales."

The reason stated for taking this "grass roots" approach to campaign financing is not to give the image of being in any one's debt.

"One thing the people can be positive about is that the Democrats will not accept money from special interest groups. After election day we intend to be able to vote for the taxpayers, not for a group of land speculators or other large contributors," said Dargis.

Another Poll Battle

Squaring off for the final day of the historic New Hampshire Senate battle are Democrat John Durkin (L) and Republican Louis Wyman. The two face each other at the polls today, ten months after the original contested election. (UPI)

Good Economic Signs

United Press International

There are new signs the economy is recovering from its worst recession in 30 years despite nagging pressures for higher consumer prices and interest rates.

Industrial production — the output of the nation's mines, factories and utilities — jumped 1.3 percent in August, the biggest monthly gain in nearly three years.

Business completed its sixth month of declining inventories in July, the longest such period since the eight-month runoff heralding the end of the 1957-58 recession. Declining factory inventories mean production will have to increase even more in the months ahead to meet consumer demand.

The combination of rising production and declining inventories indicates deep cuts will be made this fall in the ranks of the nation's 7.8 million unemployed — provided the cost of living does not return to the double-digit rates of last year.

Treasury Secretary William Simon said the economic recovery of recent months "has been stronger than most forecasters predicted."

"...I think it will continue to be stronger and that the unemployment rate will come down more rapidly than many now think," he told the opening session of the Southern Governor's Conference in Florida Monday.

But Simon said a resurgence of inflation could seriously hamper the recovery. He called on Congress to compromise with President Ford on domestic oil controls for a united front to block potential price increases by the cartel of oil exporting countries.

Although higher prices for imported oil are a possibility, higher domestic interest rates became a reality.

Bank of America, the world's largest bank, and other big banks in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, New York and Pittsburgh raised the minimum interest rate for their best corporate customers to 8 percent.

Since dipping to 6 1/4 percent in June, the prime interest rate has been rising because of the soaring federal deficit and the Federal Reserve's tightening of its credit and money policy.

In reaction to higher interest rates, stock prices dropped 16 cents a share on the New York Stock Exchange and six cents on the American.

Other possible indications of higher living costs came Monday from the Commerce Department and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Responding to complaints of American fishermen that foreigners are illegally harvesting tuna, Commerce said it might restrict tuna imports from countries acting illegally until they stop. A tuna embargo would increase consumer prices.

The farm federation said the Agriculture Department assured it that grain sales to the Soviet Union would resume after the current 30-day moratorium. Such sales tend to raise domestic prices, although there is wide disagreement how much.

The Federal Reserve said every sector of industrial production it measured in August advanced, with especially strong gains for home appliances, furniture and carpeting, steel, textiles, paper, chemicals and business machinery.

The Commerce Department said factories contributed most to inventory depletion, selling $950 million from storerooms to more than offset retail inventory-building of $609 million.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William Colby disclosed today a now retired branch chief independently saved 11 grams of an exotic and lethal poison in 1970 because he felt White House orders to destroy it were wasteful and senseless.

Colby said in testimony prepared for the first open hearings by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence that four congressional chairmen were informed as soon as the toxins were discovered in their vault at Ft. Detrick, Md.

The toxins were extracted from shellfish and cobra venom. Colby said U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers carried a shellfish toxin drill concealed in a silver dollar during the spy flight in which he was downed over Russia in May, 1960.

Colby was called to testify before Sen. Frank Church's committee which has probed intelligence activities at length in closed sessions. During those sessions the leftover toxins at the Army's biological laboratory at Ft. Detrick came to light.

Instructions to destroy chemical and biological warfare material at Ft. Detrick were issued in 1970. But last May 20, 11 grams of shellfish toxin and eight milligrams of cobra venom were found in the small vault.

"At the time the toxin was found the officer responsible for the (destruction) project in 1970 stated he had no recollection as to how it got there," Colby said. "On 30 June, discussions were held with the retired agency officer who had provided the initial lead."

Then Colby unveiled this story:

"This man, who had been the GS15 branch chief in 1970, stated that the toxin had in fact been moved from Ft. Detrick and stored in the laboratory. This was done on the basis of his own decision after conversations with the responsible project officer.

"He further stated that he made this decision based on the fact that the cost and difficulty of isolating the shellfish toxin were so great that it simply made no sense to destroy it, particularly when there would be no future source of the toxin.

"The current branch chief believes this explanation is correct but still does not recall the actual act of receiving the material from Ft. Detrick. Both of these middle-grade officers agree that no one, including their immediate superrior, was told of the retention of the shellfish toxin."

Later on, he said, CIA activities at Ft. Detrick became mostly a matter of stockpiling agents and delivery systems for possible use. He said the shellfish toxin was stored to see how well it would hold up with time.

Colby said he was trying to bring American intelligence operations into "conformity with American values and standards" through management improvements.

"I am confident that such episodes as the shellfish toxin will not be repeated," he said.

Ford Considers a Revamping

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford told the Chicago Sun-Times he may ban covert CIA political activities abroad and revamp duties of the intelligence-gathering agency.

In an interview with the newspaper, Ford said a decision on whether to limit CIA activities and shift some of its functions to another agency would be announced soon as part of a package of recommendations for CIA reorganization.

It was Ford's first announcement he was considering such action.

But the President refused to answer questions about specifics of any CIA realignment.

"I have listened to both sides and I would not want to preempt what we are going to recommend by answering your question because there are strong feelings on both sides," he said.

The President has been a staunch defender of the CIA, both in its intelligence-gathering activities and so-called "dirty tricks."

Ford, in the Washington interview with Sun-Times reporters Morton Kondracke and Thomas B. Ross and columnist Charles Bartlett, said there was no CIA involvement in Portugal. He said the anti-Communist turn there was produced by normal diplomatic pressure.

But he refused to rule out possible covert intervention in other countries in the future and rejected the contention that U.S. policy toward Portugal was more effective than policy toward Chile, where the CIA became embroiled in political intrigues.

"I don't think you can say one policy is necessarily good for every situation," Ford said. "Portugal is a unique situation. They had not had democracy in Portugal for almost half a century."

Ford said he regards the interim peace agreement between Egypt and Israel "as a real breakthrough" and believes it has created "some momentum" toward a final settlement.

He said a reassessment of Middle East policy ordered after Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy broke down in March had ended but hinted he would continue to push for further compromises.

Ford also said he does not favor a constitutional amendment to outlaw school busing and he has not decided whether to recommend legislation on the subject, although he still opposes the concept and feels it should be used as a last resort.

Marshall Won't Enter A Sideburn Squabble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall has refused to block disciplinary action by police in Nassau County, N.Y., against a patrolman whose long sideburns violated department grooming rules.

Marshall refused Monday to interfere in a decision by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordering a new trial in officer Robert W. McCune's challenge to the constitutionality of the regulation.

The Nassau Patrolmen Benevolent Association has sought several times to abolish the rule, mostly in state courts. A similar federal challenge to rules in neighboring Suffolk County will be heard by the Supreme Court later this year.

Boston Attendance Up

BOSTON (UPI) — Attendance has reached a new high at the start of the second week of expanded school desegregation, but for the first time there were reports Monday of buses being stoned.

Three buses, two carrying schoolchildren, were pelted with rocks.

Citywide attendance reached 70 percent of the projected enrollment of 76,127. Increases were most noticeable at South Boston and Charlestown High Schools, two areas which have been centers of opposition to the court-ordered school desegregation plan.

A black bus driver was treated for minor injuries inflicted by broken glass. There were no other injuries in the stonings.

Officials were optimistic the increase of more than 4 percent over last week's average indicated a weakening of a boycott by whites. They said it was impossible to determine how many Jewish students observing Yom Kippur were absent.

Despite the relative calm, a task force of local, state and federal officers, some in helicopters and on motorcycles, remained on duty. A police spokesman, citing a federal court mandate to keep such information secret, refused comment on reports of reduced staffing at some points.

Meanwhile in Louisville, if there are no more outbreaks of antibusing violence, all 1,000 National Guardsmen activated 10 days ago to help quell disorders may be withdrawn by tonight.

Maj. Gen. Richard Frymire, Kentucky's adjutant general, said late Monday "commitments of the Kentucky Army National Guard will be met through Tuesday. If all remains calm, the Guard units will be deactivated by Tuesday night."

School attendance was up Monday and the first antibusing demonstrations permitted since the first violent weekend were held without problem.

Bad Strategy

A conference in Lima, Peru, recently saw 78 poor and developing countries lay down a strategy for voting as a block in the United Nations. Thus they proved once again that they are anything but "non-aligned," unless it means they are following a compass that is badly out of alignment.

The "non-aligned" nations are falling in step behind Arab leadership in a U.N. policy directed against Israel. Further they are proceeding to try to treat their considerable economic problems by ganging up on the more advanced industrial nations, particularly, the United States of America.

For one thing, their anti-Israel policy is threatening the very structure of the U.N., which is the channel through which most technological and economic aid flows to the developing world. They are spitting themselves by helping the Arabs use the U.N. to isolate Israel.

More important, their flirtation with the idea of forming cartels to control prices of raw materials they export to the industrial nations is based on a flawed perception of cause and effect in analyzing their own economic problems.

It is the fourfold increase in the price of oil engineered by the Arab-dominated Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that lies behind the massive trade imbalances and economic stagnation besetting the developing world.

The International Monetary Fund reports that undeveloped countries are running a trade deficit of $35 billion this year — four times as large as 1973, before OPEC jacked up oil prices. The World Bank estimates that fully one-billion people in the poorer countries will see their real income grow by less than one per cent in the next five years. Their economic growth is being sapped by high prices for fuel, petroleum-based fertilizer and food they import. Recession and inflation, aggravated by the same OPEC oil prices, have diminished demand for the commodities these countries must export to pay for their imports.

The advanced nations have suffered too, of course, but because of their productivity they have been able to off-set the impact of the high petroleum price with greater exports. The United States and West Germany even are showing a surplus in their trade business this year.

So it is the Third World which is hurting the most from OPEC policies while the OPEC countries themselves bask in a $70 billion trade surplus from their oil exports. Does it escape the "non-aligned" countries that much of the new wealth of the Arabs is coming out of their hide?

The best way for developing countries to get their economies off dead center is to increase their productivity. They can do so only with technology and investment from those advanced nations they now seem determined to alienate. Their course should be clear enough, but their compass is swinging wildly toward Arab leadership and the mischievous example of the OPEC cartel which got them into their trouble in the first place.

Naval Suspicious

Capt. James E. Moore, late of the British navy, can view the navies of the world from a lofty conning tower — the editorship of the prestigious publication Jane's Fighting Ships. With the seven seas spread out below like a massive chessboard, Captain Moore sizes up how the contending pieces lay in his introduction to each annual edition of Jane's.

This year, sorting out the tonnage, hulls and weaponry of naval forces has led him to a stark conclusion. As he put it, "The evergrowing Soviet navy has outrun the legitimate requirements of national defense and has no logical merchant defense role in time of war." If the Western powers heed the lesson of history, he says, they can only conclude that these "unnecessarily large forces are intended for aggressive action."

The U.S. government, of course, does not have to read Jane's to know that the Soviet Union has been spending 50 percent more on naval ship building in the last 10 years than the United States of America, and that the fruits of that effort are turning up on all the strategic sea lanes of the world. Our defense officials have described this burst of naval ship building to Congress time and again.

What our government apparently has not done is confront the Soviet Union with the same question that Captain Moore asked himself. Why are the Russians creating a navy bigger than their own defense requires? With all the arms negotiations and summitry going on between Washington and Moscow in the name of detente, there is no reason why we should not ask the question and demand an answer.

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The U.S. has delivered a secret pledge to Israel that goes far beyond the $2.3 billion in military aid promised for 1976.

We have examined the secret accords, which promise "to continue to maintain Israel's defensive strength through the supply of advanced types of equipment."

Not only in 1976 but each year thereafter, the U.S. government will ask Congress "for military and economic assistance in order to help meet Israel's economic and military needs."

Experts who have studied the secret language claim it is more binding even than the SEATO agreement, which drew the U.S. into the Vietnam War.

Specifically, the U.S. promises to supply Israel with such advanced weapons as the Pershing ground-to-ground missiles and F-16 fighters.

The Pershing missiles are designed to hurl nuclear warheads, although the secret agreement carefully stipulates that Israel will get only missiles "with conventional warheads." Nevertheless, the implication according to our sources, is that the Israelis will be able to attach their own nuclear warheads.

The F-16 is America's latest superfighter, which hasn't even gone into production yet.

Both weapons are mentioned in a separate, secret assurance to Israel. "The United States Government agrees to an early meeting," it stipulates, "to undertake a joint study of high technology and sophisticated items — with the view to giving a positive response."

From the secret accords, here are additional pledges that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger made to Israel:

—Within the limits of its resources and subject to congressional approval, the U.S. agreed to be "fully responsive . . . on an on-going and long-term basis to Israel's military equipment and other defense requirements, to its energy requirements and to its economic needs."

—It was agreed to conduct "a joint study by military experts" of Israel's 1976 needs "within three weeks" after the accords were initiated on September 1. The U.S. promised to "view Israel's requests sympathetically, including its request for advanced and sophisticated weapons."

—The Administration agreed to ask Congress to put up money for a four-year project "for the construction and stocking" of Israeli oil reserves, "bringing storage reserve capacity and reserve stocks now standing at approximately six months, up to one-year's need."

—The U.S. agreed, its own oil resources permitting, to ship oil to Israel if the Israelis are unable to arrange their own supplies. The U.S. also promised to ask Congress to "give special attention," in calculating Israeli aid to the cost of the oil that Israel gave up to Egypt.

—The U.S. pledged to "view with particular gravity threats to Israel's security or sovereignty by a world power." In the event of such a threat, the U.S. promised to "consult promptly with the Government of Israel with respect to what support, diplomatic or otherwise, or assistance it can lend to Israel in accordance with its constitutional practices."

—Within two months, the U.S. and Israel agreed to "conclude the contingency plan for a military supply operation to Israel in an emergency situation."

—The secret accords also stipulate "that the next agreement with Egypt should be a final peace agreement."

—Further, the U.S. "shares the Israeli position that under existing political circumstances, negotiations with Jordan will be directed toward an overall peace settlement."

—The U.S. also "regards the Straits of Bab-el-Mandeb (guarding the entrance to the Red Sea) and the Strait of Gibraltar (guarding the entrance to the Mediterranean) as international waterways. It will support Israel's right to free and unimpeded passage through such straits."

MORE GO-GO: The Navy had scarcely finished reprimanding the skipper of the submarine Finback for permitting a topless go-go dancer to perform on the deck when we learned about another go-go incident this month at Moffet Naval Air Station, Calif.

But on this occasion, a male go-go dancer burst out of a cake and entertained 85 enthusiastic Navy wives. Witnesses say the six-foot-five sex symbol stripped down, a la Burt Reynolds, to a crown of leaves and a scanty bikini. The rest was exposed muscle.

He wound up his performance by stretching out provocatively on a bearskin rug. Refreshments were served by four topless waiters recruited from the squadron.

By all reports, the man in the bikini did as much for the wives' morale as the topless Cat Futch did for the morale of the submarine crewmen. Mrs. Ralph R. Hodges, the commanding officer's wife, assured us the show was presented with "finesse."

"Better lay it on thick-!"

By William F. Buckley

The President's veto of the oil price control bill was good news, and the vote of the Senate to sustain the veto is also good news. Indeed, as general rules go, it is as safe a rule as any other that comes readily to mind that any move by any government to remove artificial restrictions on commerce is to be welcomed.

In respect of oil, we have seen in their opposition to de-control not only the conventional appetite of the socialists for power, but something else besides. There is something about oil that makes grown men apoplectic in their utterances. Mention oil, for instance, in the presence of Senator Kennedy and you begin to wonder whether, as a boy when his father was telling the family that all businessmen were sons-of-bitches, he added that that went double for oilmen. Or, who knows, perhaps in the 30's the oilmen refused to permit the Founding Father to corner the market in oil, the way he did in whiskey. Certainly Senator Kennedy's hostility to whiskey cannot begin to equal his hostility to oil.

What is it about oil? The egregious profits? But egregious profits have to be measured with some reference to consumption. A profit of, say, one billion dollars is a huge profit. But if — let us use a hypothetical case — a profit of one billion dollars were the profit made by adding up all the profits made by every bakery in the United States, that wouldn't sound as large, would it?

Now the overwhelming majority of oil companies are publicly owned. That means that everyone who owns a share of stock — and that means the overwhelming majority of Americans, thirty million of whom own stock directly, four times that number indirectly through life insurance, pension funds and the like — can participate in oil company profits by the simple act of buying a share in an oil company. But if they consult their brokers, they will find that the situation is other than as described by Senators Kennedy and Jackson et al.

The oil companies have not been among the major profit makers over the years. Indeed they were ninth in the industrial hierarchy only a few years ago. And the prospects are not that bullish even with the greatly increased price of oil brought on by the oligopolistic pressures from the Middle East — an act of extortion, please note, brought on not by oilmen, who were satisfied to discover and produce and sell oil at two dollars a barrel; but by politicians who cornered the market.

Moreover, at the level with which Americans are most familiar — the price of gasoline — the profit to the oil company on a gallon of gas selling for 55 cents is approximately one penny. It is truly a matter of hogboblins. The politicians who brought our post office and our railroads now want to regulate the oil industry.

It brings to mind the correspondent in England who wrote recently to the newspaper that as a small milk producer he manages to a) buy and breed cows, b) feed them, c) provide for their health, d) milk them, e) pasteurize the product, f) package it, and g) deliver to a customer's front door a pint of milk for seven pennies. Meanwhile, the British post office is complaining that it cannot deliver a letter, using your notepaper and your envelope and deposited by you at a pick-up station, for eight and a half pennies.

There are few things given to me to know in this world by my Maker, but one thing I know with the force of certitude is that if Senators Kennedy, Jackson, and Weicker ran the oil industry, we'd be paying a dollar per gallon before John-John reached maturity; and we'd be appropriating money for unemployed oil workers.

The laws do not change in these matters. "What would happen if the Soviet Union took over the Sahara Desert?" the straight man asked in the French Assembly a few years ago. And the Speaker replied: "Nothing — for 50 years. Then there would be a shortage of sand."

Profits on Oil Are Necessary

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Welcome to the Threshold

By Nicholas Von Hoffman

A Los Angeles firm doing business under the name of Threshold makes its money by supplying what The Wall Street Journal calls "specially trained companions" to the dying for an hourly fee. This is perhaps the first commercial application for a new branch of applied social science called "thanatology" or the study of dying and death.

Where there is a need, there is an entrepreneur to supply a market. The poor will have to die alone unless the services of a trained, board-certified and licensed thanatologist will be covered by Medicare or Blue Cross. Even so we can assume the thanatologists from the more prestigious schools will limit their practice to the patients in the private rooms or who are dying at home amid folds of damask and velvet. Harvard graduates may soon be able to die in the arms of their fellow alumni.

The introduction of this new medical specialty will pose a number of problems in hospital administration and etiquette. Where will this person rank? Above or below the interns and the residents or tucked in on a par with the head nurses? Will the thanatologists be permitted to administer a hypodermic or wipe a fevered brow? It may work out that the thanatologist will not want to do such things since status in many hospitals seems to be inversely proportional to contact with the patients. Those who do the most for them are given the lowest pay and called aides and attendants while the upper-echelon personnel seldom look at the faces of the people in the beds.

In the hierarchical world of hospital life, rank and function are signified by uniforms. What will the thanatologist wear? Black? That might be competitive with the clergy. Perhaps a blue grey; certainly it will have to be some color which sets him apart for no one takes precedence over death or, you would surmise, death's deputies.

The creation of this new specialty should permit the hospital to treat the dying within its walls as most people do without. By handing over the terminals to the thanatologists, the rest of the institution's personnel can withdraw from all but the most minimal contact. It's not difficult to foresee the hospital of the future with its own thanatology wing staffed exclusively by practitioners of all sorts who live their professional lives among those without hope. Dr. Toten Mort, Practice Restricted to the Morbid.

The new thanatology wings should permit a long overdue revision in the compilation of hospital mortality statistics. The regular departments of the hospital will now be able to advertise 97 or 98 percent cures. A hundred percent is unlikely since a certain number of patients will die in the happy wards either because of anti-social tendencies or from being administered the wrong drugs by an incompetent, indifferent or slovenly member of the staff. With practice at rushing such patients through the tunnel into the thanatology wing, it ought to be possible for a hospital to come very close to 100 percent cures, but actually realizing that figure will have to wait on the perfection of hospital beds with faster wheels and the recruitment of speedier ward orderlies.

How does the thanatologist practice his profession? Maybe the heroic physician comes out of the sick room, fatigue lines on his face a la daytime television, to tell the family, "There is nothing more that modern medicine, even the high-quality medicine practiced in the United States, based as it is on the direct doctor-patient relationship without the intervention of the government, can do. Under socialized medicine, your dear one would have been dead 10 days ago. You might call a clergyman, although it is my professional duty to point out that clergymen are not trained for cases of this sort."

"It happens that in my practice I am associated with a first class thanatologist. These days with so many people afflicted with slow, degenerative, incurable diseases, a thanatologist is indispensable to modern practice."

"We've never used one before."

"They take a great burden off the members of the small, modern nuclear family . . . and, I might add, a great worry off the mind of the patient who doesn't want to be a burden. He can slip quietly away knowing that he hasn't caused the relatives to miss a day of work. The thanatologist is also trained to handle death. Let me ask you, as an untrained layman, what do you know about death? Do you think you could handle it? Even your own?"

"I guess not."

"That's right. You need a specialist. It's much better this way. Once the thanatologist enters the case, you can kiss your dying relative goodbye and never see him again."

"I don't know how our great grandparents did it, people dying at home with the children under foot. All the tears and sadness, and then we've noticed that with a thanatologist on the case, people don't linger the way they used to. I've had cases where the patient expired within three minutes of the thanatologist coming in the room and introducing himself."

Medical Speaker

KINGSTON
Dr. Thomas Francis Dillon, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Columbia University, will be the guest speaker tonight at a Benedictine Hospital medical staff dinner meeting at 6 p.m. in the Benedictine Hospital Senior Residence Auditorium.

Dr. Dillon will speak on "Prostaglandins in Obstetrics and Gynecology, a Research Program."

A graduate of Fordham University and Georgetown University, School of Medicine, Dr. Dillon has 22 publications to his credit. He has previously served as professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Cornell Medical Center and was director of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Roosevelt Hospital, New York City.

UBPA Program

TOWN OF ULSTER
An invitation to the public has been extended by the Ulster Business and Professional Association to tonight's meeting to hear Town Supervisor Carmine Sabino give a progress report on Route 9W repairs and Tom Kearney speak on "security."

Kearney, of T. R. Kearney Associates, was a member of the City of Kingston Police Department and has been a private detective since 1967. His firm also deals in security systems, as he feels criminals will strike areas they feel are insufficiently protected.

Safe Driving

The Wallkill Central School District will sponsor a state mandated safe driving practices course on Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Wallkill Senior High School. Persons who have not registered in advance should be at the high school 30 minutes before the start of Wednesday's class. The fee is $5; participants must possess a New York State Learner's Permit.

CPR—THREE LETTERS THAT CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE

Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation—Emergency basic life support procedure which is indicated in cases of sudden heart stoppage.

A man steps from the crowd. One minute he was healthy, filled with life. The next: excruciating pain—cardiac arrest. The victim slumps to the floor. His heart has stopped. Unless the blood flows again within the next six minutes, brain cells may be damaged beyond repair. That's what happens when oxygen-rich blood fails to reach the brain and other organs.

A trained bystander in this human drama plays a leading role. He immediately begins a rescue procedure of mouth-to-mouth breathing, alternating with closed chest massage, the life-saving technique of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). This action could restart the victim's stopped heart and restore life. Like thousands of others, his training has been provided by his local Heart Association. Countless victims of heart attack, electrocution, suffocation, drowning and drug overdose have been saved by men and women, even teenagers, trained in CPR.

Instructor Trainer Robert Kurland (right) certifies Hurley lifeguards Bill Darling, Ann Marks, Karen Genuario and Diane Davis in Heart's CPR. He also has trained Ulster Police and State Troopers, National Guardsmen, Fire Fighters and Security personnel in the new technique.

TECHNIQUE MODIFIED FOR BABIES

CPR training was pioneered by the American Heart Association, and now, in cooperation with the American National Red Cross and other agencies, is an important part of the emergency care required to "maintain the body's basic life support systems" of breathing and circulation until more advanced life support is available. The Mid-Hudson Chapter is setting up Instructor-Trainer Courses in several areas.

The eventual goal of the Heart Association, is that whenever there is sudden heart arrest, someone trained in CPR can save hearts that are too good to die.

FOCUS ON THE FUTURE

Deaths from cardiovascular disease have decreased for the first time in twenty-five years.

For those under 65, mortality from cardiovascular disease has been reduced 21%. Still it kills more than all other causes combined.

CHILDREN TEACH ADULTS HOW TO HAVE HEALTHY HEARTS

At a recent meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the American Heart Association, a demonstration was given of a Model Health Program being taught at Lake Katrine Elementary School which was designed to give each student a thorough understanding and concern for his heart and circulatory system. Five sixth graders set up visual aids and teaching tools for different units in the health course and taught over 50 Heart Association members what they had learned.

The pilot school program, part of the Bethlehem Health Training Project, was taught experimentally during the past two years to fifth and sixth graders under the supervision of a teaching team consisting of Principal Edward Crosby; Health Coordinator, Richard Sheridan; School Nurse Teacher, Rosemary Barnes; and sixth grade teachers, Joanne Donnaruma and Angela Marotta.

Brian McCullough and Richard Grossman explain heart sounds

Among the unique teaching methods used were the construction of a walk-through model of the heart, taking their own blood pressure and dissecting actual hearts to study their structure.

The awful number of lives taken by cardiovascular disease can only be reduced by prevention. And the only way to reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease is by changing the life-style of Americans. Rather than trying to change the long-established habits of middle-aged adults, this system relies on teaching the right life-style to our children.

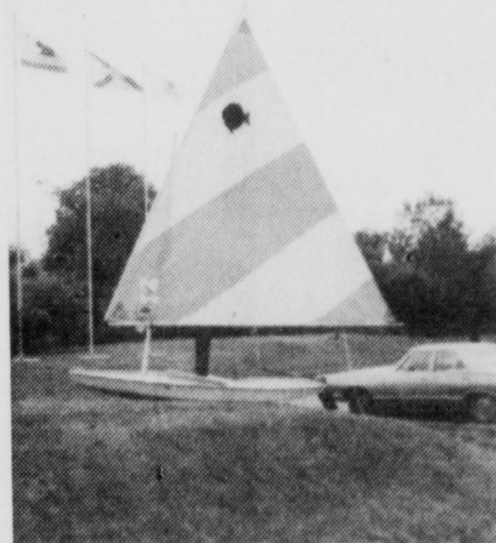

Barbara Dreska takes blood sample to study under the microscope

REDUCE YOUR RISKS OF HEART ATTACK AND STROKE

One or more factors are known to be present when cardiovascular disease occurs. Family history of cardiovascular disease, diabetes, high cholesterol level in the bloodstream, high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, overweight, lack of sufficient exercise. The more factors present, the greater the risk of heart attack or stroke.

Control your blood pressure . . .
Keep your weight normal . . .
Exercise regularly . . .
Reduce cholesterol intake . . .
Stop smoking . . .
Have regular medical check-ups . . .

Ingrid Fabbie in a modeling pose.

Barbizon Graduate In Freeman Show

Ingrid C. Fabbie, who graduated as an "outstanding student" of Barbizon School of Modeling in New York and who plans to continue her education in the field of Fashion Design and Modeling in Europe, is among the models who will participate in the Daily Freeman's seventh annual benefit fashion show, "Fun and Fashions," on October 13 at Kingston High School.

Step-daughter and daughter, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lester Legg Jr. of 68 Wilson Avenue, Kingston, Miss Fabbie's attributes are not restricted, however, to modeling. She is also a gifted musician. A flutist and pianist, she is vocalist in her brother Edmond's "Stage 1" band which is currently engaged in clubs throughout the area and which most recently entertained at the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Modeling in the Freeman Fashion Show will be like coming back home to Ingrid. She and her brother both served as models back in 1969 when the Freeman presented its first benefit show for United Way of Ulster County at Governor Clinton Hotel. Since then, she has modeled frequently for various organizations and at charitable functions. She and her brother have also entertained musically at numerous socials throughout the area.

Interested in sports, Miss Fabbie enjoys swimming, horsebackriding and dancing. She designs her own clothes, and is an antique buff, hoping someday to be able to completely furnish her home with antiques.

No Women's Libber, Miss Fabbie confesses to be an old-fashioned girl at heart, a rather difficult confession to make for 1975. But Miss Fabbie believes men still like their women to be feminine and she, on the other hand, enjoys being the type woman for whom men want to hold open the doors.

Vows Exchanged

Diane Bonesteel of Tillson and Hugh Kilpatrick of New Paltz were united in marriage in a garden wedding ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mary Kilpatrick of 240 Old Kingston Road in New Paltz.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonesteel of Bloomingdale Road, Tillson. The bridegroom is also the son of the late John Kilpatrick.

Judge Parks Glenn of New Paltz officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a street-length dress of dacron-polyester fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and long lace sleeves.

Mrs. Catherine Brown, sister of the bridegroom, New Paltz, was matron of honor. Roy Kilpatrick, brother of the bridegroom, New Paltz, served as best man.

A reception took place afterwards at the home of the bridegroom.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Kingston High School, will enter her second year at Ulster County Community College in September. Her husband, an alumnus of Brooklyn Technical High School and Rutgers College of Pharmacy, class of 1972, is employed by Hy-Way Pharmacy in Rosendale. He is a member of American Pharmaceutical Association.

When they return from their wedding trip to Bermuda, a wedding party will be given at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick will reside at 47 DuBoise Road in New Paltz.

Karen S. Van Benschoten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Van Benschoten of 20 Austin Avenue, Saugerties, exchanged nuptial vows with Bruce M. Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Porter of Brainardville, N.Y., at St. Mary of the Snow Church in Saugerties.

The Rev. Patrick Woods of Mount St. Alphonsus in Esopus officiated at the ceremony. Organist Nan Dickman provided wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a white crepe gown styled with a ruffled V-neckline, and a high waistline outlined in lace and satin ribbon. Venice lace and satin ribbon also trimmed the chapel length train.

Nikki Astrologo of Peekskill was maid of honor. Attendants were Fran Akelewicz of Voorheesville; Teresa Van Benschoten, Amy Van Benschoten, sisters of the bride, Saugerties.

Stephan Chase of Brainardville was best man. Ushers were Keith Van Benschoten of Essex, Vt., Paul Van Benschoten and Daniel Van Benschoten, both of Saugerties, all brothers of the bride.

A reception was given at Glasco Fire Company hall.

The bride, a 1971 graduate of John A. Coleman High School in Kingston, received her BA degree in Mathematics from College of St. Rose in Albany, class of 1975. The bridegroom, a 1971 alumnus of Chateaugay Central School, is attending North Country Community College where he is majoring Psychology. He is employed by Charles Bartlett Rehabilitation Center, Malone, as a workshop supervisor.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter will reside at Chateaugay, N.Y.

Shake-and-wake Alarm for Deaf People concentrate on the time I want to wake up, and some mystical equipment in my subconscious does the rest. It's infallible!

HAROLD DIAMOND, PHILA.

DEAR HAROLD: Joe Murray, editor of the Lufkin News in Texas, says he's used that system for years and it's never failed.

DEAR ABBY: A reliable and inexpensive way for deaf people to be awakened is to attach a vibrator (we use a foot massager for my husband, who is deaf) to an alarm clock with an electric timer, then to lace the vibrator on the corner of the bed! Before retiring, set the timer. The vibrator is activated at the desired time, giving my husband some independence and me uninterrupted sleep.

B.W.

DEAR B.W.: Another reader offers this suggestion:

DEAR ABBY: I've been deaf since the age of 15 and have been practicing law since the age of 21.

I have been living alone for the past five years and have yet to miss a morning appointment.

Upon retiring, all I do is

I have often wished we could tell other deaf people about this, but we had no way of publicizing it.

MRS. K., COLLEGE PARK, GA.

DEAR MRS. K.: For yet another peach of an idea from Georgia, read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am a traveling man with a responsible position. I'm also very hard of hearing, so the problem of waking up at a certain time was a serious one for me.

It was solved for less than $10 when I bought a small electric timer at a discount store. (It's the type used to turn on coffee pots at a predetermined time.) I plug it into the wall and connect it to a floor or table lamp, then I position the lamp directly over my bed. I just set the timer, and the moment the light goes on, I'm up!

Engaged? Congratulations!

Yours! This Lovely Wedding

is our engagement gift to you with our very best wishes for a life of health, happiness and prosperity. Legend has it that the original wedding bowl was placed before the bride and groom and the wedding guests filled past while filling it with money. We of course have lost track of this colorful custom but the wedding bowl persists as a unique entity — only now.

It is given as a centerpiece and treasured as a memento. Our true replica of a Colonial antique is yours without any obligation. Just come in and get yours. It's gift-wrapped and ready. We are in the romantic business of making homes and it is our continuing pleasure to place at least one piece of our home furnishings in every new home. We would be delighted to give you yours!

Present this Ad any time prior to wedding date. Receive with our compliments . . . a 20-page booklet, "Helpful Hints for Your Wedding . . ." booklets on the care of furniture and a sample of Guardsman furniture polish.

Notre Dame's Al Hunter (25) is hit by Boston College's Kelly Elias (upper right) and Byron Hemingway (C, rear) during fourth quarter of Monday night's game. Hemingway is the former Newburgh Free Academy star. Irish won, 17-3. (UPI)

Boston College Learns The Facts of Life

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Boston College has learned that to err is human, but it's no way to beat Devine.

BC found out Monday how much two mistakes can hurt against a powerful team when Notre Dame, under new coach Dan Devine, capitalized for a 17-3 win in a nationally televised game.

The game was played at Schaefer Stadium to accommodate the crowd of 61,501 fans—the largest to watch a football game in the stadium's four-year history. It was the first meeting ever between the two Catholic colleges and had the potential of giving the BC team some national recognition.

"The perennially strong Fighting Irish and the upstart Eagles were tied 3-3 well into the third period when BC recovered a Notre Dame fumble at the Irish 26. But two plays later, the Eagles bobbled the ball back into the arms of defensive end Ross Browner and the game turned around."

Browner's brother Jim, a freshman running back, scored eight plays later on a 10-yard run. Sophomore safety Randy Harrison stole a deflected pass on the Eagles' next possession and sophomore Al Hunter quickly converted it into a 24-yard touchdown run.

"I didn't say much to them at the half," said Devine, the third top active coach with a 121-40-8 record. "But I did tell the guys to be patient and keep their poise. We kept waiting for them to make mistakes for a long time, then they finally did."

BC, a 7½-point underdog, earned the plaudits of Notre Dame players, yet Eagle Coach Joe Yukica said his team hadn't played the way it needed to.

"Had it not been for a couple of stupid plays there in the third quarter, we could have had a victory," Yukica said. "We sacked the quarterback after he had completed a pass (in the third period) yet we wind up with a personal foul;

then we recover a fumble and give the ball right back to them. Then they score. As far as I'm concerned, that was the ball game."

Junior quarterback Rick Slager, with 18 minutes of varsity playing time going into the game, kept the young Notre Dame team poised and ready to capitalize on the Eagles' second-half miscues. After a 1-for-5 passing performance in the first half, he hit 6-of-7 in the final 30 minutes to engineer the two touchdown drives.

"In the first series, I was wondering if it was going to be a strange night. That's when I ran into the fullback and we got all messed up. But we had a young offense that needed some time," Slager said.

Slager completed three passes for 41 yards and Browner got the inside yardage needed to keep alive the drive that resulted in Browner's TD at 6:52 of the third period.

BC quarterback Mike Kruzec, who set an NCAA pass completion percentage record in 1974, tried to open up the offense on the next series. But his mid-range pass to Bill Paulsen deflected off the flanker's hand and fell into Harrison's grasp at the BC 49.

Harrison brought the ball to the 42 and Slager used one more pass, a 12-yarder to tight end Ken MacAfee, to set up the crushing touchdown. Slager then faked a handoff into the line and pitched out to Hunter, who was turning the right end. He shook off a couple of tackles and raced into the end zone 50 seconds into the final period.

The Eagles never again threatened seriously, getting to the Notre Dame 49 yard line only once more in the game.

"I don't believe in moral victories," said Yukica, after being asked if his team's overall play pleased him. "The only way you can describe it is disappointment. We'll still wake up tomorrow morning and be 0-1. But I think we showed them something tonight."

And it was Devine, the man who taught his youngsters to take advantage of mistakes, who had the kindest words for Boston College.

"The way they played tonight they could beat all but four or five teams in the country," Devine said. "They are that good. There's not a weakness on the team. Now I'm glad we got them first instead of later on in the schedule."

Day of Decision for Patriots

By UPI

This will be a day of decision for the striking New England Patriots and it could affect the entire 1975 National Football League season.

The Patriots went on strike Saturday and refused to play a final pre-season game against the New York Jets at New Haven, Conn. They had sought to get other NFL clubs to follow but it seems that all they're getting is sympathy.

That and a few harsh words thrown in.

The NFL Management Council, the bargaining agent for the league, issued a warning during the weekend that it would not allow any striking team to practice or collect paychecks. The Council also has indicated it may forfeit a striking club's games if necessary.

The Patriots went ahead with the strike and are due to report for their first practice session today. Monday's practice had been postponed because of a conflict with the Notre Dame-Boston College game at Foxboro Stadium.

NFL Players Association head Ed Garvey is charging a lockout and the league is holding fast. So far, only the Washington Redskins have indicated that they may join the Patriots in an actual strike.

Randy Vataha, the Patriots player representative, said, "If we don't get the support we hope for (from the other clubs), then we'll sign a no-strike agreement and go back to work. If that happens, I don't think many of our players are going to want to pay their ($300) annual dues. There's no sense being a union if you really don't have one."

"Even if we are allowed to play, the Redskins said that they have set a deadline and if things are not ironed out by that deadline, they will strike whether we do or not. Our action is decided at this time and will be exposed as it happens. We know what we are going to do but we want to do it with the least amount of uproar. This has nothing to do with the Patriots' management. It's up to the rest of the team and the association."

"There is no lockout at this moment because the players are on strike and you can't have a strike and a lockout at the same time," Patriots spokesman Pat Horne said Monday. "If at any time the players said they were coming back and the management said you're not coming back, then you've got a lockout. But this is something in the hands of a Management Council. We're sitting in limbo waiting for one side to make the move."

"I'm sure (coach Chuck

Fairbanks wants his players but it's up to them. We just hope it will be resolved as soon as possible so our coaches can get back to getting ready to play the opening game of the season."

New England is scheduled to open Sunday against Houston and Oiler owner K.S. "Bud" Adams, feels the Patriots were influenced in their strike vote by an injury to quarterback Jim Plunkett.

"I think they realized they can't win without Plunkett so this strike sort of killed two birds with one stone," Adams said. "I think it was the catalyst for the strike. It clinched their decision."

Plunkett separated his left shoulder last week and will be out about two months.

The reaction around the league was sympathetic but not to the point of striking.

Jack Youngblood, player rep of the Los Angeles Rams, said that his team would be on the practice field today after deciding at a meeting neither to support nor oppose the apparent strike-lockout.

"We met Monday and decided to ask the Management Council and the executive committee of the Players Association to sit down and iron out the problems in the contract negotiations," Youngblood said. "We want to settle these differences and get it over with so we can have peace in the NFL with both players and management."

"There was nothing to vote on. We have not taken any position yet. We are maintaining the status quo until we see what happens tomorrow."

Six-Point Proposal by Owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League Management Council today made a six-point proposal to the NFL Players Association designed to head off a league-wide strike, but Ed Garvey of the NFLPA said he would not recommend its acceptance.

Specifically, the proposal by the council was made to solve the situation precipitated by the strike action taken by the New England Patriots. The first of the six points would open the Patriot training camp to the players for practice today. The Patriots had struck on Saturday, forcing cancellation of their final pre-season game with the New York Jets Sunday.

The second point proposes that "no lock out or strike shall take place during the period from Sept. 16 to Oct. 1.

The council's third and fourth points were that it would make a "complete proposal for a collective bargaining agreement on or before Sept. 25," and that that "entire proposal be submitted to the players for acceptance or rejection."

Should the voting procedures stretch beyond Oct. 1, the council said "the no lockout, no strike agreement would be extended until the vote is completed."

The sixth and final point stated that "no reprisals will be taken against any players for action taken before Sept. 16."

Garvey, in Washington, told the council that he would present the proposal to the Patriot players, but that he would not recommend its acceptance.

Vail Ties Rookie Record

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rookie Mike Vail of the New York Mets is delighted to supply baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. with a memento of his record-tying hit.

But he wants the one—if any—that sets a record for himself.

Vail tied the modern National League record for a rookie hitting in 23 consecutive games when he singled in the sixth inning of Monday night's 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos. The record previously had been shared by Goldie Rapp of the 1921 Phillies and Richie Ashburn of the 1948 Phillies.

"Sure I'm glad the ball is going to the Hall of Fame," Vail said. "That sort of thing is part of every ballplayer's dream—that and playing in the World Series. But if I get No. 24, I want to keep that ball for myself."

Asked if he'll be happy when the pressure of the streak is over, Vail replied, "No, I'll be disappointed. This is fun. I didn't expect this when I came here."

Laurie Barnes of Virginia Beach, Fla., Vail's girl friend who was in the stands, was equally thrilled.

"It is a very moving thing to see and hear more than 7,000 people standing and cheering for Mike," she said. "I'm very proud."

Vail drove in two runs, including the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning to help Jerry Koosman win his 13th game. Steve Rogers suffered his 12th loss against 10 wins for the Expos.

Rusty Staub also had two hits for the Mets and Jose Morales had two for Montreal.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat San Diego, 5-4; Chicago defeated Pittsburgh, 6-5, before losing, 9-1; St. Louis edged the Phillies, 7-6; and Atlanta blanked San Francisco, 12-0.

Burt Hooton tied a Los Angeles club record with his 11th consecutive victory as the Dodgers topped the Padres. Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax shared the mark. Hooton now is 17-9 for the season.

Pittsburgh now leads Philadelphia by six games in the National League East following its split and the Phils' loss. Seven Pirate doubles and a Richie Zisk homer sparked their second game victory after a ninth inning rally had powered the Cubs in the opener.

Reggie Smith doubled home Larry Lintz in the eighth inning to lead the Cards over the Phils.

Dusty Baker drove in five runs and Vic Correll added three as the Braves bombed the Giants.

More NFL Cuts

By UPI

While their players debated the pros and cons of a strike, National Football League coaches prepared for the start of the season Sunday by paring down to the final 43-man roster limit.

Clubs have until 4 p.m. EDT today to establish their rosters for the season.

There were several big name players involved in the early moves Monday.

Dave Robinson, one of the premier linebackers in the NFL for the last decade, and Dan Abramowicz, the record-setting pass receiver, were cut by Washington. The Redskins talked Robinson out of retirement two years ago after he starred at Green Bay but he lost his job to Brad Dusek this year.

Abramowicz, the former New Orleans and San Francisco star who caught passes in a record 105 straight games, couldn't crack the stellar Redskins receiving corps.

Washington also put defensive end Verlon Biggs, who is bothered by a knee cartilage injury, on injured reserve for the season.

Dallas traded veteran guard John Niland to Philadelphia for a draft choice and put running back Bob Anderson, obtained from Denver last week, and Rodney Wallace on waivers. San Francisco dealt Forrest Blue, one of the top centers in the league for the past few years, to Baltimore. The 49ers also waived wide receiver Speedy Thomas and put linebacker Dale Mitchell on injured reserve.

Elsewhere, Chicago dropped three veterans—tackle Grady Alderman, running back Clifton Taylor and center John Didion—and Detroit put injured receiver Larry Walton on injured reserve for the year. Green Bay trimmed veteran quarterback Jack Concannon, along with Jim Germany and Mike Fanucci, and put veteran tackle Randy Jackson on injured reserve.

Los Angeles traded running back Tony Baker to San Diego for a draft choice, waived safety Bill Drake and put guard Dan Nugent on injured reserve. Minnesota cut Jackie Wallace, who started at right cornerback in the Super Bowl, along with wide receiver Dave Hagle.

The New York Jets put rookie wide receiver James Scott on injured reserve and New Orleans dropped veterans Rocky Rasmey and Frosty Anderson and put linebacker Jim Merlo on injured reserve. Atlanta waived Jimmy Robinson, Steve Smith and Bob Thomas and put running back Vince Kendrick on injured reserve and Baltimore waived Steve Williams and Greg denBoer. Buffalo dropped Mark Johnson and Royce McKinney and Cincinnati cut rookie quarterback Gary Sheide and Bob Maddox and placed Gary Burley on injured reserve.

Kansas City put tight end Gary Butler on injured reserve and dropped Bob Stein and Cornelius Walker and Philadelphia waived Tom Donchez and Jim Cagle. San Diego put linebacker Charles Anthony on injured reserve and Cleveland waived Jim Arneson and Willie Armstead.

Frazier Next Met Manager?

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — This is the time when all the losers in baseball sit down and figure out what they're going to do next year, the meetin' of the beaten, you might call it. Usually, the first thing considered is which players to keep and which to deal, and after that's settled, the front office people get around to the manager. First things first, you know.

So far, six managers have been fired this year. Seven more are candidates to go.

They are Del Crandall, Danny Ozark, Frank Quilici, Wes Westrum, John McMamara, Connie Ryan and Roy McMillan. I'd be surprised if as many as two of them keep their jobs and wouldn't be shocked at all if none did.

The Mets say they have not made a decision yet on who they want to lead the team next year. They claim they aren't even sure they're going to make a change, but I believe they will, and when they do, instead of going "outside" as they did in securing the late Gil Hodges from Washington, I think they'll come up with someone from inside their own organization.

Someone like Joe Frazier.

No, no, not the Joe Frazier meeting Muhammad Ali in Manila in two weeks, but the Joe Frazier handling the Mets' Tidewater club in the Little World Series now against Evansville.

When the Dodgers first signed Walt Alston as their manager 22 years ago, one New York newspaper scratched its head over him by asking "Walt who?"

Alston had appeared in only one big league ball game and gone to bat only once. Practically all that was known about him was that somewhere along the line he had picked up the nickname "Smokey."

Joe Frazier put in more playing time in the majors than Alston, spending parts of four seasons with Cleveland, St. Louis, Baltimore and Cincinnati. Somewhere along the line the other players started calling him "Cobra Joe." Now they've shortened it simply to "Snake."

What the Mets want chiefly in their manager for next year is both a winner and a strong man, someone in either the Hodges or Alston mold, and Joe Frazier fits both descriptions.

A solid everyday performer as an outfielder in the minors, Frazier played at such places as Leaksville, N.C., Oklahoma City, San Antonio, Spokane and Vancouver. He began his managerial career for Houston 10 years ago by handling their Bradenton and Coco clubs in Florida and joined the Mets organization in 1968, managing Mankato of the Northern League and later Pompano Beach and Visalia.

Over the past three seasons, no manager in baseball has been a more consistent winner than Frazier.

He won the Texas League championship with Memphis in 1973 and with Victoria last year. This year his Tidewater team beat Rochester in a playoff for first place in the International League and then defeated Charlestown and Syracuse for the Governor's Cup.

It was only the fifth time in International League history that a team ever won both the pennant and the Governor's Cup.

So much for Joe Frazier, the winner.

On the personal side, he doesn't come on strong but he's anything but weak or submissive. Best of all he seems to relate well to young players.

Outfielder George Theodore, who played under the 52-year-old Frazier at Visalia and is with him now at Tidewater, has this to say about him:

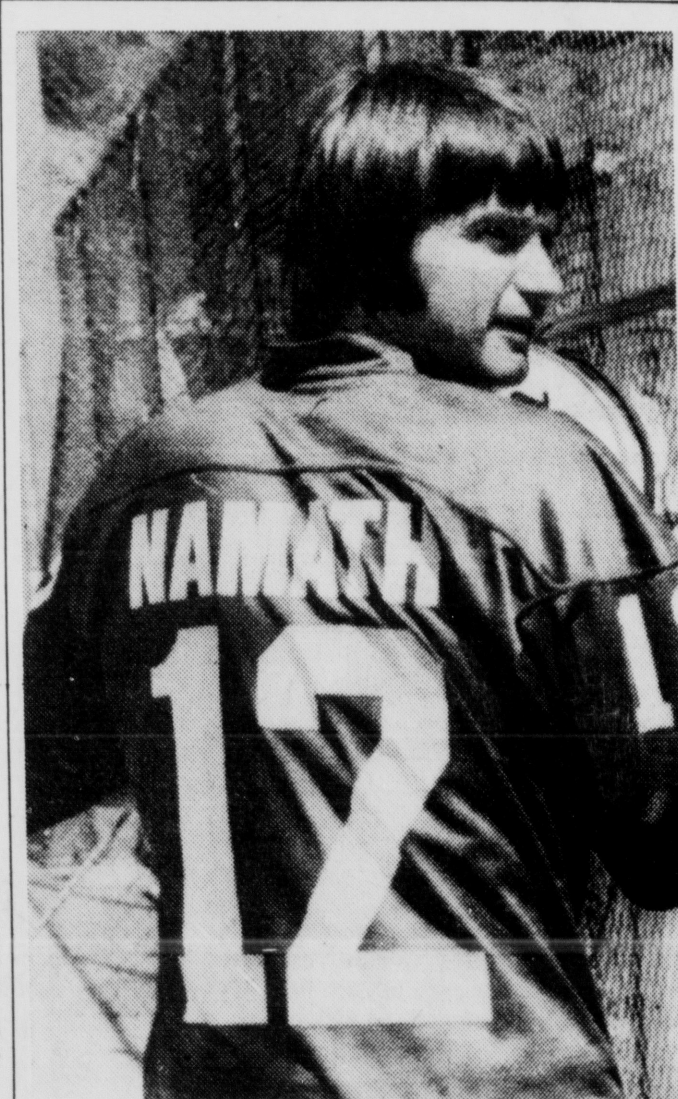

"Every player who has ever worn a professional uniform should have the honor and pleasure of playing for Joe Frazier."

More than that, it was Frazier who had the Mets' red hot Mike Vail earlier this year and readied him for the big club. Right now, you'd have almost as much chance of getting Mike Vail from the Mets as you'd have of getting Tom Seaver.

Next year I have a feeling Mike Vail and his old manager will be reunited. Not at Tidewater either.

JOE FRAZIER

Football Anyone?

Tennis ace Jimmy Connors wears football jersey with the name and number of Jets' Joe Namath during workout in Hamilton, Bermuda. Connors will compete in the Bermuda Tennis Classic this week and is expected to make his singing debut on a Paul Anka TV special. (UPI)

Nazarene Campaign Continues

KINGSTON

The telegram and letter campaign instituted locally by the Rev. Ronald Keller, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene to free imprisoned missionaries continues.

Officials of the International Headquarters of the Church of the Nazarene, Kansas City, Mo., informed the Rev. Mr. Keller that on Friday several senators and congressmen had been in touch concerning the arrest and imprisonment of three missionaries in Mozambique. The Rev. Mr. Keller interprets this as a sign that the telegram and letter campaign is working.

Missionaries imprisoned include the Rev. Armand Doll and the Rev. Hughlong Friberg of the Church of the Nazarene and the Rev. Paul Milan, a missionary of an independent American mission. A total of 17 other national pastors and citizens of Mozambique are in prison after arrest by the new government there. The Rev. Mr. Doll who had been placed in solitary confinement has been placed with other prisoners, the Rev. Mr. Keller has learned.

The local pastor continues to urge all interested persons to send telegrams and letters to President Ford, their senators and their congressmen asking them to do all that is possible to bring about swift release and safe passage from Mozambique for these men.

Nicholas Sinacori Dies, DOT Official

POUGHKEEPSIE

Funeral services were held this morning for M. Nicholas Sinacori, regional director of the New York State Department of Transportation, at First Presbyterian Church, South Hamilton and Cannon Streets, Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Sinacori died Saturday, Sept. 13, at Plano, Tex., after a brief illness. As regional director, he was in charge of all state transportation projects in the counties of Ulster, Orange, Columbia, Dutchess, Putnam, Westchester and Rockland.

Prior to his appointment as director in 1961, he was assistant district engineer from 1957 and prior to that worked at the Albany office of the transportation department from 1946.

He is survived by his wife, Eunice Sinacori of Poughkeepsie; two sons: Stephen of Mount Kisco, Nicholas Jr. of New York City; a daughter, Rosalyn Graham of Plano, Tex., and two granddaughters.

He Informed on Mob, Now Waits for Death

CHICAGO (UPI) — Martin Pollakov, an undercover informant who helped break open the largest cash burglary in U.S. history, is waiting to be murdered by the mob.

"It's not a question of if they'll kill me, it's merely a matter of when," Pollakov told the Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission Monday.

He told the commission that, despite government protection, he expects to be slain. Pollakov was one of several witnesses testifying at the hearing on a $10 million a year theft and fencing operation in the Chicago area.

Pollakov found himself deeply in debt to loan sharks in 1969 and has been working as an undercover agent for the commission since.

While working under cover, he said, he learned of a "big cash score" that was being planned. The "score" turned out to be the $4.3 million Purulor Security burglary — the largest cash heist in American history.

The burglars, aided by an inside man working as a Purulor guard, broke into the Purulor vault on a weekend last October, grabbed bags of money and replaced them with bags containing firebombs in hopes a blaze would destroy evidence of the theft.

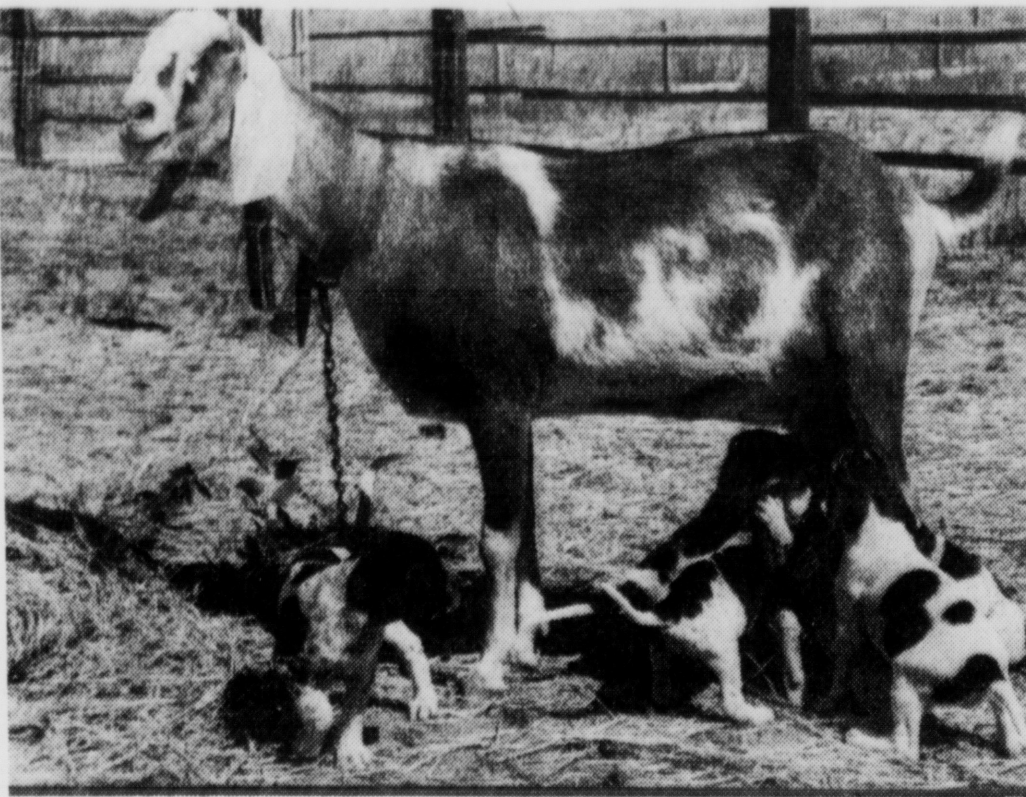

The firebombs went off, but lack of oxygen in the vault quickly extinguished the blaze and the theft was uncovered.

Pollakov helped investigators track down the burglars. Four have been convicted or pleaded guilty, one has been acquitted and one is awaiting trial. But more than $1 million taken in the heist remains missing.

During his testimony, Pollakov also named several suspects in the fencing ring — several of whom were present at the hearing. Three of those named were at the hearing — Aldo Mazzone, Roy Markham and Theo Macis — refused to testify.

Pollakov said Mazzone is a bankroller who provides cash for others to open shady discount stores. He said Markham and Macis are fences for stolen goods.

Commission members said they will seek a court order instructing the three to testify or be held in contempt of court.

Udder Mother

Queen, a nanny goat, helps feed some of the surviving 12 puppies of a litter of 16 bloodhound-blue ticks born on the Anderson farm near Round Prairie, Ore. last July. The mother of the puppies, Pearl, was having trouble feeding them so the Andersons purchased Queen to help accommodate the puppies at feeding time. The puppies, now five weeks old, are doing well. Troops Might Quell Strife in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival Christian and Moslem militias traded gunfire in suburban Beirut today, set up roadblocks and kidnapped motorists despite a government threat to send in troops to quell the growing violence.

The heaviest fighting centered in the Moslem suburb of Chiah, where leftist militiamen fought rightwingers from the neighboring Christian region of Ain Rummanah.

The leftists also used two armored cars stolen from the internal security forces to send shells ripping into homes in Ain Rummanah, witnesses said.

Rightist Christian groups blocked the main Beirut-Tripoli highway near Jounieh and kidnapped about 15 Moslems from passing cars.

They told a reporter they were holding the Moslems in exchange for two Christians kidnapped from a nearby village Monday night.

Despite a statement by Interior Minister Camille Chamoun that the government would clamp down on the warring militias, security forces in the trouble spots did not intervene to stop the fighting.

Chamoun said the Lebanese cabinet agreed Monday to impose "firm measures" if the opposing militias reject a truce.

Asked if the government might send in soldiers to stop the fighting in Beirut's suburbs, he replied, "Yes, that is one possibility."

Premier Rashid Karami sent 2,000 troops to northern Lebanon last Thursday to set up a buffer zone between the warring militias of predominantly Moslem Tripoli and largely Christian Zghorta.

The situation in Tripoli, where the army killed 12 leftist gunmen early Monday, was reported tense today as troops warily patrolled the buffer zone.

LWW Annual Kick-Off

SAUGERTIES

When someone says "League of Women Voters" do you automatically visualize the proverbial little old lady in tennis shoes earnestly writing letters to her Congressman? If you do, the League of Women Voters of Saugerties is out to shatter your stereotype, according to membership chairman Marcia Childers.

The league's annual membership meeting Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. at the Sawyer Savings Bank Community Room will give Saugertiesians an opportunity to meet league members and to find out more about league activities. Ealyne Weinstein, an area director for the League of Women Voters of New York State, who serves as a liaison between the state board and local groups, will be there, too. League membership is open to all U.S. citizens of voting age, which means that the league now accepts male members, so the "little ole lady in tennis shoes" is a thing of the past—if, indeed, she ever really existed.

Greco Speaks

SAUGERTIES

Frank Greco, the Republican Party hopeful for Saugerties town supervisor, will address the Town of Saugerties Republican Club at 8 p.m., Sept. 18 at the Flamingo Restaurant.

Greco's diversified business and governmental experience include his job as treasurer of Greco Brothers Amusement Company since 1955; treasurer of Greco Motors Automobile Agency after World War II; and ten years from 1933-43 managing a summer resort in Mt. Marion. He has been executive secretary of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission for the past ten years.

Greco was a town councilman for 16 years and has served on the Republican Town Committee. He is president of the Saugerties Lions Club and is involved with the Glasco Little League, the American Legion, Glasco Fire Company, Knights of Columbus, and many fund raising drives for non-profit organizations.

Special Permit

WEST HURLEY

The Town of Hurley Zoning Board of Appeals recently granted Dr. Gary Berchenko of Witch Tree Road, West Hurley, a special use permit to place a farm pond on his property.

The permit was conditional and included the posting of a bond with the town attorney and following guidelines of Brinnier and Larios, town consulting engineers. Members of the board said they are convinced the project will prove successful and should be completed by next summer.

The pond will be classified as a farm pond and being in a R-1 residential zone cannot be used for public recreational uses, overnight camping, or any other non-personal use.

Your Astrograph

For Wed. Sept. 17, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 You'll be generally fortunate at what you undertake today. However, for some reason you'll shave your own chances a bit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Be sure to acknowledge one who is helpful today, or else he may be hesitant to do you a favor again.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 There will be an opportunity presented to you through a friend but you're likely to take less advantage of it than you could.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Make it a point to see that each share equally today where there will be three parties involved, or someone will be slighted.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 You're still lucky today in matters requiring teamwork. Your partner will hold up his end. Just be sure you hold up yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 You'll be tempted to slack off a bit where your work or career is concerned today, but you shouldn't. The possibility of larger rewards is still there.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 If you're doing any entertaining today keep the group to a manageable number. A few extra guests will tip the boat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 You'll enjoy reasonable success today, provided you don't let one who doesn't know what to do with her time involve you in a fruitless pursuit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-

Dec. 21) You'll be a bit reluctant to put your ideas to the test today, though they'll work surprisingly well if given half a chance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Your material prospects are still promising, but there's a small caution: You may not be fully aware of the opportunities surrounding you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 Your imagination is your most dependable ally today. It's wise to consider suggestions, but don't let them overwhelm your views.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Something profitable to you will suddenly develop out of the blue today. Failure to follow through will diminish its worth.

Your Birthday

Sept. 17, 1975

You'll form two fortunate associations this year that could provide you with additional sources of revenue. Rewards will come from a talent, or service you have to offer.

Win At Bridge

Demonstration of the End Play

By James & Oswald Jacoby

American Bridge Teacher's Association's President Ed Gordy and his wife, Laura Jane, believe in giving beginner's hands that show some important principle of play, but where there is only one really good line.

The bidding as shown employs a 1935, Jacoby gadget. This gadget is that the jump to four after partner opens two shows trumps, but denies an ace, king or singleton.

South is disappointed to find dummy with three spades, but the hand is still a sure thing. All South has to do is to draw trumps, cash his clubs and diamonds, enter dummy with the nine of trumps, lead a spade and stick in the jack or 10 after East plays low.

West wins and is totally and completely end-played.

A Jacoby modern gadget gets to the slam after a bidding sequence that differs from the one shown in the box. Two clubs (artificial), two diamonds (no ace, king or queen), two hearts, three hearts, six hearts.

Jean Adams

TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D

OBSTINATE: (Q.) I am going with Gary. He has a problem. It is drugs. He knows he has a problem so do his parents and the authorities. But he won't listen to anyone. I don't even try talking to him about his problem because I don't think it would help. Now this puts me in a spot. Should I break up with him before he gets worse or should I stick it out?—No Much Hope in New York

(A.) How do you know Gary won't listen to you if you talk to him about drugs? You haven't tried. He may listen to you even though he hasn't listened to others.

Tell him how you feel. Do it quietly and without "preaching" to him. He may react positively. If he doesn't, and if you are then convinced that there is no chance of his turning around, do not stick to him out of some mistaken sense of "loyalty." Let him go down, but don't go down with him.

REVENGE? (Q.) Three weeks ago my parents found out that Larry and I were making love. Since then they have kept us apart and are trying to get him convicted of statutory rape. They want him behind bars.

I love him deeply and am willing to compromise with them if they will just drop the charges. The charges are false. He did not rape me. I made love with him because I wanted to. They seem to be seeking some sort of revenge.

I do not want to have a part in ruining Larry. Please help me. I am 18 and he is 20. We are engaged.—Suffering in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You are an adult. So is Larry. You are engaged. Marriage normally follows engagement. This is not endorsing what you have done. Rather it is pointing out a constructive solution.

(Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal answers.)

THE TIME HAS COME TO PUT PRICE & PRIDE TOGETHER AGAIN.

A&P has always stood for two things:

Price & Pride.

Price & Pride together made the great A&P great.

Then, somehow, we let Price & Pride get out of balance.

We forgot our own philosophy:

Price without Pride is no bargain.

And we suffered for it.

The time has come to put
Price & Pride together again.
And we're going to do it.

If we can't do it,
nobody can.
